England is still endeavoring to persuade herself that the Afghan revolt does not amount to much.

Tobacco Leaf:—The present governor of Tennessee will be known in the history of the state as the great "equitable adjuster."

The name of Colonel Hayes, the new Kentucky Judge, was the last to be urged on the President, and he doubtless owed his appointment largely to the fact that he was not involved in the somewhat spirited contests which have taken place between some of the more prominent candidates.

His case was fully presented here by Mr. J. Davidson, of Springfield, Ky., Col. Hayes commanded the 10th Kentucky Infantry in the Army of the Cumberland, and was an excellent and popular officer and a citizen of standing.

Salem, Ind., September 8.—Yesterday evening about dark, William Gallahan was shot and instantly killed at his residence about twelve miles northwest of Salem, in this county. Gallahan was a well-to-do farmer, and had been in the county for many years.

Accounts have reached here, but the most authentic rumor is that the murderer, a stranger, rode up and called Gallahan out and asked him if he had anything against him, to which Gallahan replied in the negative. The stranger then said: "I have against you," and fired with the result above stated. A dispatch from Campbellsburg, from officers who went to arrest the perpetrator of the foul deed stated that he has been caught, that he is a stranger, and gives the name of Thomas Joseph. Gallahan was about forty-five years old, and is reported to have been a quiet farmer or good character and no known enemies.

Four Thousand drinks.—A gentleman of this place tells of a man who once lived over at Athens, in Fayette county, and sold whiskey on credit, and that too at five cents a drink. He had a way of closing a man's account whenever it reached fifty dollars, and opening a new one. A customer bought so much and paid so seldom that his fourth fifty-dollar account was closed, and he was notified that the bills must be paid, or he could get no more drinks. A positive refusal to pay brought on a lawsuit in the court of the district. "Squire the Squire, who greatly resembled the late Chief Justice Robertson, looked gravely at the defendant, safely remarked that a man who would be charged with four thousand drinks of whiskey ought to pay the bill whether he had ever gotten them or not, and rendered judgment in accordance with the remark."—[Richmond (Ky.) Register.]
